

Orland Plans Armistice Program

Legion Sponsors Elaborate Affair For November 11

ARMISTICE DAY MASS MEETING

The Orland Park Post of the American Legion is sponsoring an Armistice Day Mass Meeting for the entire Community Wednesday evening November 11th at 8 P.M. at the Orland Park School Building. Armistice Day is a very significant occasion in the history of the world and the Legion is attempting to celebrate the tokens of peace in the light of present needs of the day.

A very excellent program has been arranged through the generosity of some outstanding talent that have donated their services for the program. Mr. Emmett Hudson, a widely noted tenor of Chicago who has sung before many great audiences will sing a number of selections.

Miss Estelle Spoo a beautiful and noted tap dancer will give some dance selections. Miss Fritz Hugh, an actress and singer who has appeared in a number of successful plays will also entertain. Mrs. Adele Cooper of Orland will accompany on the piano. The above artists have consented to donate their services due to the character of the meeting.

Amos and Andy will appear incognito and give a short selection. This will be a rare opportunity for radio fans. The Orland Park band will play. Every organization in Orland will come in a body.

Two very fine speakers have been secured. Mr. Davies, the popular chaplain of the Englewood Post of the American Legion will speak concerning Armistice Day. There will also be a speaker from the Relief Headquarters in Chicago who will explain the need of the work in connection with the Gov. Emerson Relief Commission.

It is hoped that everyone in the community will come out to this meeting to hear the fine program that has been arranged and show their loyalty in the Armistice Day Celebration. Admission is absolutely free and everyone is welcome.

Mokena Candidate Comments on Judge Shuertleff's Decision

Don C. Hall candidate for the nomination for Representative in Congress on the Republican ticket at the 1932 April Primary from the newly formed 14th Congressional District of Illinois, commenting on the recent decision handed down by Circuit Judge Shuertleff, Belvidere declaring the recent Illinois Legislative, Congressional District reappointment Act unconstitutional, asserts that within his judgement the Court is without jurisdiction or authority in the premises.

A comprehensive study of the subject clearly shows that it is not subject to a review or decision of the judiciary.

The U.S. Constitution provides the maximum number of representative in Congress from each state and that reapportionments shall be made by the State Legislatures every ten years, as a basis for determination in the selection of such representation and this action to be taken "in such manner as they shall by law direct."

Apportionment has been made by the Illinois Legislature in the years 1843 '52 '61 '72 '82 '92 '93 and 1901 but no reapportionment has been since until 1931 although two Congressmen at large have been added bringing the representation up to twenty seven members.

The 1931 Legislative enactment of reapportionment creating certain new districts was clearly in accordance with the Constitutional requirements and could not possibly be subject to court interference.

The State Legislature as a law-making body has certain rights and prescribed prerogatives clearly defined in carrying out the demands of Constitutional provisions.

Mokena Garden Club News

The November meeting of the Mokena Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Love.

Mrs. L. G. Bruder, our president opened the meeting by reading the following poem, written by Lord Bacon.

"God Almighty first planted a garden and indeed it is the purest of human pleasures."

It is the greatest refreshment to the spirit of man, without which building or palaces are but gross handiwork and man should ever see that when ages grow to civility and elegance, men come to build stately and to garden finely, as if gardening were the greater perfection."

We had as our guest, Mrs. Cooley of Libertyville, who gave a splendid talk on "Rock Gardens."

An announcement was made that there will be a lecture on Garden Club work at the Palmer House in Chicago. It will be very interesting to anyone who wishes to attend.

The date can be given by anyone of the local Garden Club members. The next meeting will be held on December 1st at the home of Mrs. Charles Geuther.

The Truth About The Wolf Road

A Contributed Article

In an effort to hasten the completion of the south end of the paving of Wolf Road to the Lincoln Highway Mr. Semmler and myself have had occasion to talk to many of the county officials during the past few months. We have frequently met with the statement, "It is hard for us to help you folks, out there in Mokena, because you are divided among yourselves and don't know what you want." In the following letter I will try to bring out where the difference of opinion (if any) exists.

In October, 1929, Mr. Ona E. McGovney, precinct committeeman of Mokena, Charles Hirsch came to Mr. Semmler with a proposition to start a hard road building program in Mokena and vicinity. Mr. Semmler knowing that I had spent considerable time and some cash to push the paving of Wolf road, suggested that I be asked to join them. This was done by these three men and I was very glad to join the committee.

Meetings were held with the county officials, a survey was made which was approved by the state, right of way was secured and in July 1930 bids were advertised for the paving of Wolf Road from the Will-Cook County line south to the Lincoln Highway. Bids were received from the Powers-Thompson Construction Co., of Joliet, Pronger Bros., of Blue Island and others. There matters began to lag. Weeks went by and no contract was let. I called a meeting of our committee to see if something could be done before the summer ended. Mr. McGovney stated that he would be unable to press the matter further with the county officials as he had been promised a construction bond on the paving and was afraid he would lose the premium amounting to about $1000.

B. Hauss of Orland Dies Suddenly

Mr. Benjamin Hauss one of the prominent citizens of Orland Park for a long time a conductor on the suburban train of the Wabash Railroad, passed away last Friday October 30 and was buried Monday.

Mr. Hauss was born in Linn County Mo. August 28, 1869. He was married to Etta Smitters of Bement Illinois Sept. 16, 1891. To this union two sons were born, Ralph and Earl, now of Chicago. He is also survived by four sisters, Mrs. Hays of Guthrie Okla., Mrs. Oscar Goodman of Covington Okla., Mrs. J.H. Bogan of Mt. Vernon Okla. and Mrs. Margaret Lacey of Woodlawn Illinois. There is also four grandchildren who survive.

Mr. Hauss has been sick for some time. Recently he was taken to the Burnside Hospital where he died.

The services were from the home. Rev. Sanders presided at the service and was assisted by Mrs. Frank Yunker of Palos Park, who sang two songs. The Masons then took charge of the service. The burial was at Cedar Park cemetery.

Play Foolish and Dangerous Halloween Pranks at Mokena

In spite of the fact that Mokena had special police on duty Halloween night, the Royal Blue Store operated by George Magrel was the object of a vicious attack by a rowdy group. The store was pelted with tomatoes and an electric barber pole was wrecked. About $25 damage was done. The matter is to come before the next council meeting. Quite a number of out houses were overturned and windows all over town were soaped.

The worst piece of rowdism, one which stamped the perpetrators as either a bunch of morons or gangsters, was pulled off on Wolf road a short distance north of Mokena. A roll of fence wire, a mail box taken from the Anton Nelson place and a large number of corn stocks was piled in the center of the highway.

The obstruction could have resulted in a serious accident and might have caused a fatal accident. As it was a car driven by Mrs. Wm. Semmler nearly crashed into the obstruction. The miscreants showed themselves very foolhardy as they can be made to pay a severe penalty for meddling with the government when they tore out the mail box at the Nelson place. Fellows who pull a stunt like this are a menace to the community and are either in a class with morons or hoodlums.

Mokena Church Votes To Change Pastor

At a special meeting of the Immanuel Lutheran church congregation held at the church October 29, 14 votes were cast against retaining the present pastor, Rev. Paul E. Schauer and six votes were cast in favor of retaining him. The congregation allowed him 30 days in which to consider a new change.

Several ministers from the Missouri synod attended the meeting.

Ruby Simon Crowned Queen In Tinley Festival

A crowd said to have numbered 1150 persons attended the big fall festival and crowning of "Miss Tinley Park" as sponsored by the business men of Tinley Park last Saturday night. A large booth was erected in front of the Post office and contained a keg for each contestant for the title of "Miss Tinley Park". Into these kegs the votes for each contestant were placed and at nine o'clock the voting closed and the kegs were then taken into the Funk store where the votes were counted and tabulated. Miss Ruby Simon, the genial and popular clerk in the Tinley Park Bakery was the winner with 726,000 votes to her credit.

A. O. Foskett, president of the Tinley Park Lions Club notified Miss Simon of the honor she had won and "the queen" was then escorted to the Saenger hall accompanied by Mayor Wm. Mohr of Tinley Park, Lion President A. O. Foskett, Al Koehler and Editor Wm. Semmler of the Tinley Park Times.

A great crowd packed the big hall to capacity.

The stage was all set for the coronation ceremony and the crowning of the queen was a very colorful affair, with little tots holding garlands and with a background of flowers and bright lights. "Miss Tinley Park" was given a great ovation. Mayor Wm. Mohr placed the crown on her head. Immediately following C. Sander, promoter of the festival, presented the queen with a beautiful walnut hope chest, a gift from the business men of Tinley Park.

Bert Fulton, president of the Tinley Park school board won a $5 gold piece as a prize and donated the same to the Tinley Park Girls basketball team.

Following the pomp and pageantry of the coronation, a program was rendered. A feature of the evening was the orchestra under the direction of Tony Kososki of Tinley Park, well known in music circles, and critical dancers from Chicago, Gary, Evanston and many other places, proclaimed the music of this orchestra the best they had ever danced to.

Prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Hilding Anderson in the waltz contest also to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brennan.

Contracts For Wolf Road Construction Let In Cook Co.

The editor is in receipt of a very interesting letter from A. H. Lauer, real estate man of DesPlaines regarding the paving of Wolf road in Cook County and in Wisconsin. Mr. Lauer advises that all contracts have been let on Wolf Rd. excepting from DesPlaines south to North ave.

Contracts have been let for separate grade crossing at Ogden ave., overhead crossing over N. W. R. R. Proviso railroad yards, proposed overhead crossing C. M. ST. P. R. R. yards, subway under C. N. W. R. R. north of DesPlaines. Separate grade crossing with N. W. Highway, also proposed subway under Soo Line R. R. north of DesPlaines. This will make the famous Wolf road a speed highway or superhighway thru Cook county and when finally completed will not pass thru a congested area.

Wolf road will connect Milwaukee with Kankakee and will shorten the distance 16 miles and will save a paving cost of $480,000.

Just think of it Milwaukee to Kankakee 135 miles; from Kankakee to Wisconsin line 95 miles; Kankakee to Wheeling 70 miles.

U. S. 41 an arterial highway is on a right of way 160 feet wide, a six lane pavement runs directly south of Milwaukee and will hook up with Wolf road when finally completed. Landscaping of this highway with native shrubs and trees will begin early next spring.

Contracts for paving of Wolf road in Cook County have been let to Peter J. Crowley Co., and the Piccus Construction Co.

The paving of Wolf road is to be carried on north of 143rd st to 111th street next spring it is understood.

Nothing whatever is being done in Will County to complete the paving of Wolf road in this county. Delay and a lot of buck passing on the part of the county officials is all that is going on. Voters in Frankfort township are planning to vote the Democratic ticket straight next election and feel that if the Republicans are dumped, perhaps the Democrats will be more alive to the importance of Wolf road and see to it that the Will County end of this highway is paved. The paving of Wolf road in Will County will be made a political campaign issue according to present indications.

WACHTER ORCHESTRA WILL HOLD DANCE

The Wachter orchestra will hold a dance at the new hall in Frankfort, Ill. and new time favorites will be featured. The dance will be Saturday night, Nov. 7th. Everyone is invited.

Strange Men Fail In Kidnapping Attempt

During the past week, the children of the Sedan Prairie school have been molested by strange men who, for several days have been driving leisurely along the highways. Sometimes there was but one man, and at other times, two, three or four.

On last Friday Wilbert Neimeyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Neimeyer and Howard Elliott were accosted on their way home from school and the men invited the boys to ride, stating they would take them home.

Tuesday morning, George Kampe, aged 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kampe, happened to go alone to school. He was but a short distance from the school house when an old Chevrolet car, driven by an unshaven, unkempt and disfigured man, approached him and insisted he should get in and ride. When George refused, the man jumped from his car and made an attempt to seize him by force. In flight George ran home, and in that way foiled the plan of what would have been a fiendish scheme of some villain.

It is thought however the would-be-kidnappers not being successful in their plans, would probably prowl around other country schools and it is hoped that the rural communities will be on guard and warn the children against the dangers of these strange men.

Mokena School News

The sixth grade have finished an interesting study of South America. Each child made a physical map of the continent using flour, salt and water. These were made very attractive by the use of water colors.

Later a large wall map was made by two boys of the class. Each country of South America was assigned to two or three children. It was their duty to bring the products of this country to class and paste it neatly on the map in the correct place. The children enjoyed this greatly and it was interesting to see how the children worked out their plans and own ideas. We would be happy to have the public come to see our display. Everyone is welcome.

There is no school this Friday due to the meeting of the Northeast section of Illinois State Teachers' Association at Joliet.

E. V. MALTBY FORMER MOKENA MAN ARRESTED

In a rural cabin near Seattle, Wash., federal agents Saturday captured E. V. Maltby, former wealthy broker of Chicago, sought for more than a year on a federal indictment charging nine violations of the grain future act.

Maltby was a member of the Rural Grain Co., which failed in June, 1930. Immediately after the firm had been suspended by the Board of Trade, Maltby disappeared. He told his captors: "I just climbed into my car and drove west. I have not committed any crime, but I hadn't the heart to face the customers who lost money in the company's failure. I never knew I had been indicted."

There is no doubt, however, that he was in hiding. He had altered his appearance by growing a full beard and was living almost like a hermit.

Mrs. Maltby, found at her home 15246 Lexington av., Harvey, said she did not know her husband had been a fugitive. Maltby, who is 55, was reputed at one time to be worth $750,000. They formerly lived in Mokena in the house now occupied by the Fred Brown family.

Robbers Break Into Frankfort Store and Steal $100 In Purse

Robbers visited Frankfort Sunday night and robbed the store of Scheer & Stellwagen of $100. Entrance was gained thru a rear window. The money was in a pocket book which was in a desk drawer. No attempt was made to rob the cash register. The fact that the robbers knew just where to look for the pocketbook would indicate that they were well acquainted with the premises.

The magnificent new Tinley Park grade school was formally dedicated with an equally magnificent program Wednesday night. The beautiful auditorium in which the dedicatory exercises were held was thronged with over a thousand people in addition to 200 school children.

The new auditorium or gym was resplendent with its exquisite decorations and beautiful colored lights.

The school, brilliantly lighted, was thrown open for public inspection at 6:30 p. m. and the great throng of people thoroly inspected the building.

The dedicatory program opened with selections by the Thornton Township high school band of Harvey. This is the first time in the history of the band that they have played out of their home town on any occasion like this. They made a hit. This band numbers 52 pieces.

The program was given a decided patriotic touch, when the American Legion Post of Tinley Park appeared on the stage in uniform presenting the colors while the band played the national anthem.

The Tinley Park orchestra, under the leadership of T. Kososki, also furnished some very fine selections.

H. W. Wyman, life long resident of Tinley Park, who is connected with the Public Service Co., for many years, was the Master-of-ceremonies. Mr. Wyman gave a resume of the growth of Tinley Park and showed how the farms which he knew when a boy, have been subdivided and new homes have sprung up and many more children have been added to the roll of the Tinley Park school. He stressed the splendid team work of the many organizations of Tinley Park and showed how well they work together. The full text of Mr. Wyman's speech will be printed in next week's issue, time and space forbidding its publication this week.

Mr. Cameron, assistant to County Superintendent of Schools, Edward Tobin of Cook County, spoke in the absence of Mr. Tobin and congratulated Tinley Park on their fine showing of team work as exemplified in the new school building.

Mr. Booth of the office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Springfield, made a fine speech emphasizing the fact that a good elementary school education is the foundation for future education in high school or college. He made it very clear that the elementary school should be "A No. 1," as is the case in Tinley Park.

Miss Catherine McClaughry, District Supervisor, in her address spoke about the parents and community working for the children and complimented the school board, the building committee and the community on the fine school building they have erected and for their fine display of teamwork.

Floyd Goodier, Superintendent of Schools of Chicago Heights pointed out that Tinley Park did not let the economic situation stand in the way of caring for the educational needs of the children of the community and that a reduction in school costs should be the very last thing to be considered in an economical program relief.

Fragrant Foliage

Plants with fragrant foliage were popular years ago. The leaves were picked, dried and used for various purposes, scattered through the linen in bureau drawers and for scenting ribbon boxes and other things. Lemon verbena was a favorite, rose geranium and other scented geraniums were also used. Then after the bottle was well packed with the petals, alcohol was added to completely cover them, which made a delicately flavored perfume.

HEART OF THE NORTH

BY WILLIAM BYRON MOWERY

THE STORY

Six bandits board the steamer, Midnight Sun, tied to the bank of the Mackenzie, hold up Father Claverly and other passengers, kill Jimmy Montgomery, formerly of the Mounted, and get away with gold dust and furs.

CHAPTER II—Continued

As he brushed his sandy hair and dressed quickly, Alan's glance strayed down the slope to Mrs. Drummond's flower garden. Elizabeth Spaulding, his fiancée, the sister of his dead partner, was there.

And Inspector Haskell was there with her . . . that blue and gold of his uniform, through the shrubbery . . . Alan wondered how many hours Haskell had spent with Elizabeth in these last four days.

Commanding all the other buildings at Fort Endurance, Alan's cabin, which he and Curt Spaulding had built for themselves one summer, was light and airy, homelike with fireplace, bookshelves, radio, flower pots on the ledges, and comfortable with good furniture which Jimmy Montgomery had turned over to him when Jimmy's young wife died. But in spite of its comforts after barracks life, the cabin was lonely to Alan. Eighteen months rolling by had not made him forget a dead partner. Every log and every nail in the building held some memory of Curt Spaulding; and Curt's picture, his chevrons, his empty gun, were poignant reminders of that fatal patrol a year ago last January.

When he finished dressing, Alan stepped over to a deep alcove, a sort of library and study—a tiny niche for a man so tall and lanky. Above the work table hung a shelf of dog-eared books and three pictures framed in carved walrus ivory. One was of Elizabeth Spaulding taken two years ago when she came down north to this Waterways country to live with Curt, her brother. Another was of Jimmy Montgomery in jaunty "walking-out" uniform, taken before Jimmy got his raw deal from headquarters and bought out of the Mounted.

The third was of Curt Spaulding. And that picture, flanked with the chevrons and the belt-gun, hung more prominently than even the other two, as though, with that face always in front of him, Alan felt less lonely for his dead partner and could imagine Curt here in this cabin still.

In Curt's death he had lost the best and truest friend he had ever had or ever would have; and he knew that through all the years of his life he would be lonely for that strong hand-clasp and a voice he once had known.

From a little pigeonhole between two logs—a secret mailbox for himself and his hard-working men—Alan pulled out a scrawled note from Corporal Bill Hardsock. He had to smile as he read, for the note was so like Bill.

"Somebody found an awfully dead Smoky on a mud bar down river this side the Big Alooska, Alan. He probably got drowned in the break-up but I'm going down to see who he is so's he won't be drawing treaty money by proxy for the next 20 years."

Alan sat down to write out the report of his last patrol. But his thoughts strayed to Elizabeth in the garden; to Haskell, there with her. He knew that these trips he constantly was sent on, these trivial assignments that took him away for days at a time, were deliberate on Haskell's part, to get him out of the road. With anger at this gross abuse of authority, he thought: "If Haskell could come within a mile of managing this post himself, he'd frame some detail to keep me out in the bush altogether. Any person who'll wield his official power in a personal matter like this . . . They used to cut off a knight's spurs with an ax!"

There was little passion in Alan's emotions toward Elizabeth, but there was a sturdy loyalty and a certain blind idealization of her as a girl. In that fatal patrol he and she had suffered a mutual loss of partner, brother. During the eighteen months since then, he had been her only friend here at Endurance, for even Mrs. Drummond, with whom she was living, did not like her. To have a girl so dependent upon him, not only for friendship but for maintenance itself, aroused a very tender and protective attitude in Alan.

But at times, deep in his heart, he was troubled about his engagement to Elizabeth. At times the fear rose in him that their marriage was going to be a terrible mistake. Something lacked in their betrothal; they weren't the deep and intimate friends they should be.

It shocked him to realize he was going into marriage with a girl knowing he did not love her wholeheartedly. In brooding hours, when he thought of another girl in his life, of Joyce MacMillan and his comradeship intimacy with her, the old longing for that deeper and richer relation surged through him. He grew bitter at the secret powerful circumstances which had separated him from Joyce; which he kept locked within himself, telling no one, neither Joyce nor Elizabeth.

To other folks at Endurance, Alan's engagement to Elizabeth Spaulding had come as a staggering surprise. Knowing nothing of the all-powerful reason which had driven him to that engagement, they felt he had treated Joyce MacMillan rather badly; and not even their friendship for him would make them accept Elizabeth.

Father Claverly, alone, of all the people at Endurance, knew that there was something back of that engagement which Alan had kept to himself—some hidden reason, some unalterable fact, that would explain it. At first he had thought that the profound shock of a partner's death had caused Alan to turn to Elizabeth; but with the passing months he became convinced the reason was not that. It was something deeper and more lasting.

With infinite sorrow Father Claverly had seen Alan's fine comradeship with Joyce break up and had watched the engagement come about. He saw that Elizabeth was a wise, cool-headed girl, very clever at managing relationships for her own ends. In the good priest's opinion the marriage of this cool-headed, calculating girl to a man so sincere and warm-hearted, would be a sorry, sorry pass.

When Elizabeth came in the door, she merely nodded to Alan's warm

"If I'd Repulse Him, He'd—He'd Take It Out on You!"

greeting. In her precise tones she said:

"I want to talk to you, Alan, about something very important to us both. Unless you're too busy. . ."

Her rebuff hurt Alan. Her coldness, her lack of any passion, were always bewildering to him.

Waiting, painfully aware he could never answer her arguments, he glanced out the window at the river and shimmering pine hills. A mile down the broad Mackenzie a canoe, a small patrol craft with outboard motor, came whipping around a headland.

Alan thought: "That's Bill Hardsock coming. And coming wide open. Something's happened."

Elizabeth saw the craft, too. But she glanced only once at it, entirely uninterested. Police work—patrols, arrests, map surveys, treaty money, pelts to be stamped, bickering Indians—all this bored her, now that the novelty of it had worn off.

She loved Alan—with reservations. She admired his natural-born leadership over other men; admired his rugged honesty, especially in contrast to Haskell's lack of it. In their life together Alan would always be loyal to her; she could always depend upon Alan Baker. And he could get her what she wanted of life. Much better

All Sorts of Virtues Credited to Turquoise

To the people of Tibet and Persia, the turquoise appears in the light of a charm—a talisman endowed with curative powers and mystic benefits, writes Bayard Nettleton in the Los Angeles Sunday Times. It was considered "an astringent and sweet to the taste, an excellent means of provoking the appetite. Every poison, whether vegetable or mineral, or a mixture of both, was rapidly neutralized by the turquoise. It relieved the pain caused by demoniacal and other obnoxious influences. The stone was employed as an eye remedy and applied against the stings of the scorpion. It was used in temple worship and as an omen of good luck in the marriage ceremony."

For centuries the turquoise has been linked with the spiritual and physical welfare of the ancient nathan he himself did, she realized he had qualities that would take him far in any other profession: a good intellect, ambition, the ability to work hard, and—most valuable of all—a rare capacity for friendship.

All in all, Elizabeth felt that if only he did not choose to bury himself here in this northern backwoods Alan Baker was by far the likeliest man, of the four or five she had known well, to lift her out of genteel poverty to a more agreeable plane of life.

She said, "You know what I want to talk about." She asked pointedly, "When your term is up next month, are you going to re-enlist or not?"

Alan knew that Elizabeth was determined, heart and soul, that he should get out of the Mounted and take a good salaried position down in Victoria which Colonel Steele, commander of his regiment in the World war, had been wanting him to accept. But he was loath to take a job on a friendship basis; he preferred to stand on the more self-respecting ground of honest work honestly performed. And to leave this land where he had found freedom and happiness was an intolerable prospect. He loved this northern Mackenzie country as intensely as he hated the hectic stifling oppression of city life; and his comradeship with men like Bill Hardsock was precious to him.

If he tore himself away from all this, if he became a mere cog in an industrial machine, he would be uprooted and miserably unhappy.

But as things stood, he was in a blind alley. Haskell was riding him hard for personal reasons; a rank injustice had been done him. . . . There were a dozen powerful arguments on the other side, too.

After a moment he said slowly: "I suppose I oughtn't to sign on again. But it's hard to decide, Elizabeth."

"What is there to decide about? How can you tolerate this situation you're in? You're a subordinate, taking orders; you're liable to be demoted any day; you're compelled to do another man's work for him! You don't think your situation is going to change? You aren't expecting a commission any more now, I hope? Then why under heaven do you want to stay?"

Alan started to answer, but he checked the words. His reasons were deep and intangible things—his friendships, the freedom he'd found here, the sense of being rooted in the country, his ramified duties that held him with invisible bonds, his unwillingness to desert comrades when they sorely needed him, his reluctance to give the impression of having quit just because a commission was not forthcoming.

Down on the river Bill Hardsock came skimming full-tilt up to the landing, swerved the canoe around in a complete circle to stop it, leaped out upon the planking, tossed the painter to a sleepy Loucheux. He did not seem to notice Inspector Haskell only a couple rods away. At a lobe he headed up the terrace, straight for Alan's cabin, as though Alan was the man to hear his news.

"If you had nothing to turn to," Elizabeth persisted, "it would be a little different. But you've got a position waiting, at four times your present salary, with advancement sure, with a chance to make even more on the side." She broke off: "But what's the use of going over and over these arguments? We've gone over them a dozen times. I didn't come for that."

She paused a second, to emphasize her next words. "If you intend to stay in the Mounted, I wish you would tell me so frankly, so that I can plan. . . ."

It was an ultimatum. She meant it so; Alan understood it so. But she saw too that it had antagonized him a little. Though she must be firm now, she must head off any antagonism.

Dropping her coldness, she got up and stood beside him where he sat on the corner of the table.

"Alan! Don't you realize how intolerable it is for me—not being with you two hours in a whole week? And if we were married, he—Haskell—he'd make it even worse. You know why he's sending you out on these patrols and letting you be here just long enough to manage the post. When you're gone he forces his company on me. If I'd repulse him, he'd—he'd take it out on you! I've got to let him—"

A slow red crept into Alan's face and his fist clenched. He had wondered, sometimes with nameless suspicions, why she allowed Haskell to be so much in her company. Mrs. Drummond and others had hinted about it to him, implying it was not very honest of her. Here was the reason! It had never occurred to him that Elizabeth had been permitting it for his sake.

Lesson for November 8

PAUL IN EPHESUS

GOLDEN TEXT—And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:1-41.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul in the City of Ephesus. JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul in the Key City of Asia. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Bonfire of Bad Books. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Gospel Facing Error.

I. John's Disciples Become Christians (vv. 1-7). These twelve disciples had only been taught the baptism of repentance as preparation for the Kingdom. Paul taught them to believe on Christ; that is, to receive Christ as the one who on the cross provided redemption for them through the shedding of his blood. When they believed and received Christ as their Savior, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus, and Paul laid hands on them and they received the Holy Spirit.

II. Paul Preaching in Ephesus (vv. 8-10).

1. In the Jewish synagogue (v. 8). Though the Jews were Paul's enemies, he inflexibly followed his rule to go first to them with the gospel. His preaching was characterized

a. By boldness (v. 8).
b. By reason (v. 8).
c. By persuasion (v. 8).

d. By speaking concerning the Kingdom of God (v. 8). He did not discourse on philosophy, or the latest in literature, but upon the message of salvation through Christ.

2. In the schoolhouse of Tyrannus (vv. 9, 10). The Jews, being enemies of the gospel, were only hardened by Paul's preaching, and spoke openly against this way of salvation in Christ. Paul separated the disciples from them and resorted to the schoolhouse of Tyrannus.

III. God Working Miracles by Paul (vv. 11-16).

Ephesus was noted for its wonder workers. That Paul's ministry might be successful here, God in an extraordinary way put his seal upon the work. Handkerchiefs and aprons that had touched Paul's body healed the sick and cast out evil spirits. Seeing the marvelous power operating through Paul, certain Jews who went about the country practicing magical arts undertook to use the name of Jesus in their incantations. Knowing that their connection with Christ was not real, the use of his name by them only enraged the evil spirits who sprang upon and overcame them.

IV. A Glorious Awakening (vv. 17-41).

1. Fear fell upon all (v. 17). News of the casting out of these evil spirits created impressions favorable to Christianity.

2. It brought to the front those who professed faith in Christ while not living right lives (v. 18).

3. Many gave up the practice of the black arts (v. 19). Black arts are forms of jugglery by the use of charms and magical words. No one can have fellowship with God and practice such arts. They proved the genuineness of their Christian profession by publicly burning their books, valued at $12,500.

4. Upstart of the silversmith at Ephesus (vv. 23-41).

a. The occasion (vv. 23, 24). The power of the gospel was destroying the infamous business of Demetrius and his fellows. Their primary interest was its financial effect upon the principal business of the city.

b. The method (vv. 25-29). Demetrius, a leading business man, called a meeting and stated that much people had been turned from idolatry and that the market for their wares was materially weakened. He appealed to his fellows.

(1) On the ground of business (v. 27). The world is willing to tolerate any kind of religion or moral awakening so long as it does not interfere with its business or way of living.

(2) On the ground of religious prejudice. He said that the temple of the great Goddess Diana would be despised (v. 27). He became religious when he saw that his business was being damaged. His speech gained his end. The crowd in a rage cried, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians."

The mob was quieted by the tact, good judgment, and counsel of the town clerk (vv. 37-41).

Obedience

The golden chain of obedience is broken if one link is missing. If you are hanging over a precipice by a chain and one link goes, you are lost.

Difference in Men

One man will make all human nature seem contemptible; another will exalt it to immeasurable heights of beauty and benignity. So there are men who make it hard, others who make it easy to believe in God.—Jno. W. Chadwick.

Holiness

The holiness taught in the Bible is the same as that lived by the saints of the Bible. The saints of the New Testament showed us how holy people ought to live.

Reward for Large Families

Rewarding parents of large families is one of the most brilliant functions that take place annually at the Hotel de Ville, Paris. Nearly 150 medals of gold, silver and bronze, according to the merits of each case, were this year distributed. The gold medals went to the parents of eleven and twelve offspring, silver to those of eight or nine, and bronze to those of five, six or seven. There were nine of the gold class this year, twenty-one of the silver and more than one hundred bronze ones presented.

Too Much ACID

MANY people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia tooth-paste.

Fish Had His Watch

Leonard Smith, of Calcamonga, Calif., went deep-sea fishing. He missed his watch and thought perhaps he had left it home. Smith caught a good-sized bass. An hour later he picked up the fish to clean it and thought he felt its heart beating. Slitting open the fish he found his watch still ticking away.

Bradford of the state department of conservation recently issued a warning to the effect that Iowa and Missouri duck hunters must stay on their side of the Mississippi river until November 1, and then must have Illinois nonresident licenses to shoot migratory waterfowl east of the center of that river. The Illinois duck hunting season runs through the month of November.

The "Farm Warehousing Act," a law which has been inoperative since its passage in 1927, has been placed in active operation by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. This law enables co-operative agencies to store grain under the state seal. The law will enable Illinois farmers to hold their grain for higher prices. Director Stuart E. Pierson of the state department of agriculture stated that the department had been at work on plans for the operation of this farm storage act for some time. The department of agriculture does not collect fees of any kind for the service it renders.

Lieut. Gov. Fred S. Sterling was initiated into Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, at a recent meeting of the Illinois chapter at Champaign.

The state health department of Illinois issued a statement that predictions of a hard winter and little improvement in unemployment have greatly increased the public demand for disease prevention. There has been a decided increase in the demand for preventive vaccines and serums.

Craig, Galesburg.

In a recent speech at Springfield, Congressman William E. Hull made the statement that the inland waterway system from New Orleans to Chicago will develop the Illinois valley more rapidly and substantially than any other project ever built in Illinois. Walker's report to the effect that presidents of self-supporting districts constitute the membership of the international executive board. If this plan were put into effect, the international executive board would consist of about three members instead of twenty-six as at present.

An announcement by State Treasurer Edward J. Barrett states that new bids for state deposits, filed by more than 1,300 banks throughout Illinois, will bring in about $300,000 a year more interest than would have been realized on bids rejected by him on September 14. As far as Treasurer Barrett has been able to determine, Illinois will receive as high, if not higher, a rate of interest on its deposits next year than is being paid on deposits of other states.

HELPFUL HUSBAND LARGELY A MYTH

Little Gained by Letting Him "Tinker."

Men are supposed to be handy with the hammer and good at doing odd jobs round the house, but from what I hear from women who have them (husbands, I mean, not hammers), it's a tradition lacking in truth. If a trusting wife asks her spouse to repair a chair leg or an electrical fixture it cannot be done until a suitable kit of expensive tools is bought. When the tools arrive he does not know how to use them. In the end the wife has to hire a workman, and instead of saving money she is out the price of the tools.

One wife decided it was ridiculous to pay a carpenter to hang the porch swing when her husband and grown son were able-bodied and reasonably intelligent. The twain were willing to lend both brains and brawn, and started operations by tapping the porch roof to locate the joist. The sound told nothing to their untrained ears, so they bored eight experimental holes without ever touching the secretive beam. Eventually the lady of the house sent for a carpenter who filled up the eight holes, and hung the swing.

One summer this same father and son tried to save the family budget by building a coal bin in the basement in which to hoard coal bought at low prices. Their fancy carpenter work loosened the brick foundation so that the cellar leaked all winter, and in the spring a brick mason repaired the damages at considerable expense.

Then there's the woman who hated to spend $10 for an outside aerial for her new radio. She insisted that her husband could save money by building one. Accordingly he bought the necessary material. He crawled under the edge of the house to ground the wire properly, and as he was a hefty brute he got stuck under the foundation, and pulled a Floyd Collins. Sympathetic neighbors dug him out and he went to bed to nurse his bruises while a hireling built the aerial. Instead of saving money he paid a doctor's bill.

The most interesting trait these helpless husbands show is their willingness to spend hours in inventing a way to escape the work their wives assign to them. This tendency has led to most of our important household inventions. Of course it was a man who first thought of washing, ironing, sweeping and heating eggs by electrical power. Probably his wife asked him to help her one day when she was sick. As often as not his inventive powers lead him to grief instead of success, as in the instance of the man too lazy to carry out his wife's garbage pail. She kept the garbage in the rear by the garage door, and asked him to put it on the curb each Monday morning. Therefore when he backed the car out he would place the garbage can on the running board and stop at the curb long enough to park the can, thus saving at least a hundred feet of unnecessary can carrying. One morning he forgot to remove the garbage can from the running board, and never gave it a thought until he made a quick stop at a prominent traffic intersection. There was a fearful clatter on the left of the car, and he looked out in time to see his breakfast grapefruit peels rolling beneath a flossy limousine, not to mention coffee grounds and potato parings strewn all over the scenery. This husband insists that he never recovered from the resultant inferiority complex, and his wife lost her garbage can which he couldn't possibly stop to collect.

The fond father who spent $2 for a bomb to amuse his children on the Fourth of July "meant well" when he put it on top of the grape arbor before he lit it. His idea was to remove it as far as possible from the bodies of his young hopefuls. It fell off and exploded in his wife's favorite flower bed, uprooting the pride of her life and undoing months of hard labor.

the family can accomplish with the most useful tools. The vaunted superiority of the male in all mechanical matters often falls flat when he is asked to tinker. Sometimes it's safer to leave the head of the house behind the newspaper, and hire outsiders to take care of repairs. It's cheaper in the long run to pay one bill instead of several.—Indianapolis News.

Special Guests

Marcia L. of Mooresville was planning for a birthday party. Her mother had written out the invitations and told the little girl that she must tell her to whom she must send them.

"Now, Marcia," she said, "think of your best friends, the ones you like best, and I'll send them one of these little cards and they will come to your party."

Marcia studied quite awhile and finally said:

"Mother, I've decided to ask Santa Claus and Jesus to my party."—Indianapolis News.

Radio's Effect on Language

Radio has aroused new interest in correct speech and pronunciation. No definite steps have been taken in the United States as yet to standardize English speech as used over the radio, but the British Broadcasting company of England has established a single-standard of radio English by organizing an advisory committee to compose a style sheet for radio announcers. According to David Saranoff, radio has added about 5,000 new words to the English language.

Now GAS IS CHEAPER and it's not too late to heat your home with this ideal fuel THIS WINTER

THERE is still time to have carefree gas heating service for your home this winter. And because a new gas has been brought into northern Illinois, it has been possible to reduce the cost of this most modern of fuels approximately 30%.

Let us figure your cost

To show you just what this reduction means to you, we will be glad to send one of our house heating engineers to call at your home. At once—and without obligating you in any way. He can prepare an estimate of just what it will cost to heat with gas under the new rates.

Remember in comparing gas with other fuels that it offers you completely carefree heating service. A temperature regulator in the living room takes full charge of the furnace—orders your fuel as you need it—keeps the whole house comfortably, healthfully warm.

Install gas heat now

Why not install gas heat now—for the coming winter. You can begin to enjoy its many advantages during changeable fall weather. When temperatures drop temporarily, your gas heater will start up automatically. As soon as the house is comfortable, off it goes again. Because the heater works automatically, you waste no fuel.

And, of course, you're through with shoveling coal, fussing with drafts, carrying out ashes forever.

In most cases your present heating plant can be "converted to gas" at small expense. A gas-burner can be installed in the fire-box whether your system is warm air, hot water or steam. The Public Service Company's testing laboratory has approved half a dozen of these conversion burners—will be glad to recommend one exactly suited to your home.

Mail the coupon

If you will mail us the coupon below, we'll send one of our house heating engineers to call on you. He will not only tell you all about the new gas heating rates and conversion burners—but also estimate just what gas heat will cost during an average heating season.

WOMAN RETIRES AFTER LONG TELEPHONE SERVICE CAREER

Miss Margaret Cooper, who was one of the first telephone operators in Indianapolis and who is the oldest member of the Indiana Bell Telephone family in point of service, retired on September 1 after almost forty-eight years spent in the Bell organization. She started work as an operator on November 20, 1883. At that time there were but 900 subscribers in Indianapolis, and all but one were places of business. No one had a private telephone in his residence in those days except the leading iceman, and he received orders at home.

Miss Cooper remained as a local operator until 1888, when she was appointed toll chief operator, the first to hold this position in the State of Indiana. She served in that capacity until promoted to service manager in 1901. In 1903 she went to the Pacific Coast, where she was given charge of the employment and training of all traffic employees in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho. Returning to Indiana in 1906 as toll chief operator, she continued in that capacity until 1916, when she was made employment and welfare supervisor. Since 1926 she has devoted all of her time to the position of traffic employment supervisor.

SWISS OPERATORS MUST BE FLUENT IN THREE TONGUES

Switzerland has three national languages: German, French and Italian. As a result, telephone operators in Switzerland must be able to use any one of the three. The majority of the Swiss cantons are German speaking, and therefore the German language is used to a greater extent than the others in telephone conversations.

Local and long distance calls in Switzerland are showing considerable increase, as are also calls between Switzerland and foreign countries, and international calls passing through Switzerland. Transatlantic telephone service was extended to Switzerland in July, 1928. The service is used extensively, not only by tourists, but also for business purposes.

COLORADO NOW REQUIRES TELEPHONES IN SCHOOLS

Following the blizzard in which five Colorado children froze to death, Colorado has passed a law requiring telephones in the schools. Since the blizzard, trustees in many Kansas school districts have also recently voted to install telephones and radios.

EDITORIAL SPOTLIGHT

ROUGH ON FUGITIVES—Butte, Mont., Standard.

A few years ago if a bank were held up the sheriff or chief of police sent telegrams to all surrounding cities or used the long distance telephone in an effort to head off the bandits. This system is still in use in most of the western states. The radio is not very valuable because it serves as a warning to the fleeing fugitive.

In Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, California and several other states, the chief of police or sheriff where the crime is committed simply writes his message on a teletypewriter. Simultaneously this message is automatically written on the teletypewriters of adjacent city police offices. The radius in Pennsylvania embraces 110 cities and operates over 3,427 miles of wire.

The criminal, no matter how clever or speedy, is apt to be confronted in any town with the story of his crime at any time, regardless of the direction in which he travels. The teletypewriter is credited with some of the biggest captures of the past year. Within the next few years it is highly probable that every state in the union will be connected by the teletypewriter system and a crime will be thus bulletined from ocean to ocean and from Canada to Mexico. Expansion of the system will bring it into the smallest towns and villages, and the eyes of the nation will be watching for the fugitives.

A New Canned Product

CREAM, true cream in tin cans, sterilized to keep, easy to whip, and good to use with coffee or cereal on the one hand, or to whip on the other, is now available for use on the seven seas, in northern and southern pleasure resorts, and in the ever increasing apartment house dwellings in our big cities. It is undistinguishable in taste from fresh cream, and retails at about the same figure that bottled cream does.

This is good news for housewives, and the canned cream has this additional advantage in the matter of economy that, due to the fact that there is a finer subdivision of the portions of fat, it will go further in coffee than a like amount of regular cream. The sterilized cream disperses more finely and evenly, and consequently has more "whiting" power.

This new product now makes it possible for the first time to have real cream on the tables of ships on long voyages, in the tropics and in all places where it was never before possible. To whip it, chill the cream for several hours—twenty-four or more for best results—and chill the utensils with which you whip it as well. Where simply a rich, heavy cream is desired, it can be used just as it comes from the can and it needs no chilling.

To show how far this cream has already traveled in tropical countries Martin Johnson sent back a letter from South Africa praising its convenience and fresh flavor while on "safari."

WHEN WE GIVE THANKS

EVERY Thanksgiving Day we fete a very beautiful thing—it is the quality of gratitude. Everyone who has given or received gratitude knows how fine it is, how warm, how stimulating. Great thinkers tell us that gratitude opens the way for wonderful things to come to us. It seems almost a pity that it is so—or at least that we should know it—so beautiful is gratitude in itself.

That for which we have cause to be most thankful does not always come with glowing colors in success; sometimes it steals in quietly on days so dark we do not know that it is there.

Seek a quiet corner, a comfortable chair, turn back the pages of your own life, look at the sadly thumb-marked ones, do you not find written there for the first time in its annals the name of a friend, afterwards the inspiration of deep happiness?

Our Forefathers Knew

We have more to be thankful for than we realize, and our forefathers knew that when they set aside a day for giving thanks and considering our blessings.

So let us get out our whitest linen, our gleaming glass, our richest silver, and let us prepare the finest feast our hands can make to fete, in gratitude, our friends, not forgetting the greatest Friend of all, who, whether the times are bright or gray, showers us with gifts. Here's the menu which serves eight.

Sardine Points
Orange Cups
Pickled Crabapples Celery Curls
Roast Turkey
Bread Stuffing Giblet Gravy
Whipped Potatoes
Baked Hubbard Squash
Creamed Cauliflower
Frozen Cranberries
Dressed Assorted Salad Greens
Pilgrim Father's Pudding
English Toffee
Salted Nuts and Raisins

Sardine Points: Mash one 4-ounce can boneless sardines. Add two teaspoons lemon juice, two tablespoons chopped walnuts, two tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, two tablespoons chopped celery, three tablespoons mayonnaise and mix well. Fill caviar puffs in pointed triangle shape or spread pointed pieces of toast with this mixture. Garnish with a slice of olive placed at the wide end of the puffs or toast. Makes about twenty. These may be passed with some iced beverage before going in to dinner.

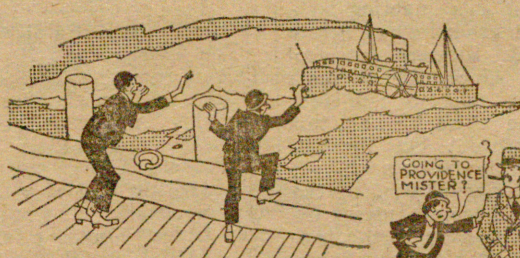

Orange Cups: Scrub four California oranges and cut in halves with a saw edge. Scoop out pulp and remove all the white fibre from it. Keep skins in cold water while preparing filling. Add one No. 2 can crushed pineapple to orange pulp, then add two tablespoons syrup from green mint cherries. Drain orange cups, dry, dip edges in a thick sugar syrup, then in finely chopped fresh mint, making a green rim. Fill with fruit mixture. Put two or three after-dinner mints in the center of each.

Frozen Cranberries: Boil one-fourth cup sugar and three-fourths cup water to a thin syrup. Soak one-half tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons cold water, dissolve in the hot syrup and add two tablespoons lemon juice and one-half cup orange juice. Add the finely mashed, sieved or melted cranberry sauce from a No. 2 can and freeze to a mash. Fold in one stiffly beaten egg white and pack in ice and salt mixture, four to one.

A Different Pudding

Pilgrim Father's Pudding: Beat two eggs, add one-third cup melted butter and two-thirds cup diluted evaporated milk. Add two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt which have been sifted and lastly one-half cup orange marmalade (or any kind of jam or preserves). Put one teaspoon of marmalade in each greased individual mold, pour in the batter and steam thirty-five minutes. Serve with the following Sauce: Cream six tablespoons butter and one cup confectioner's sugar, add grated rind of two oranges, three well-beaten egg yolks and six tablespoons orange juice. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Serve cold over the hot pudding.

Will Co. Farmers Asked to Hold Grain off Market

There will be an important meeting held for all farmers, who are producers of grain in Will County, at the hall in the C. & J. Terminal Building, Joliet, at the corner of Clinton and Ottawa Streets on Friday evening, November 13 at 7:30 p. m.

The purpose of this meeting is to explain to these producers of grain the Illinois Farm Storage Act and the method by which the farmers will be able to borrow sufficient money to enable them to hold this grain off the present low market. Illinois produces more than 25 per cent of all the market corn of the country and if it becomes necessary to sell this gigantic crop at the present price of corn, it will mean financial disaster to thousands of those who produced it.

Mr. Harrison Fahrnkopf, grain marketing director for the Illinois Agriculture Association in Chicago and Larry A. Williams, general manager of the Country Life Insurance Company, will be present at this meeting to explain to the farmers how the government's policy of orderly marketing is being carried out thru the creation of a new credit organization with a loaning power of some eight or ten million dollars and how this money will be made available to farmers in Will county, who need it to assist them at this time of their extreme need. Now is the time for every bonafide grain grower in Will County to get the facts of this new source of credit that is designed to help them at this time of emergency.

Walter Mancke, local barber who has been laid up for a few weeks, is able to be out again.

George Lorenz, Wm. Funk, H. F. Brueggemann and several other hunters journeyed to Bath, Illinois on a duck hunt this week. It is understood they contracted the "duck fever".

Mr. and Mrs. Robet Rooker had a pleasant surprise the past week when the former's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rooker of Greensboro, Indiana and Mrs. G. B. Morton, his sister of Frankfort, Indiana came to visit them.

George Ehlers has been on the sick list for several days.

At my request a group of Wolf road property owners went before the county bond issue committee at Joliet with a request that a contract be let and work started at once on the road. Mr. Francis stated that due to the fact that the right of way thru the Cleveland farm had not been acquired and that they had had trouble with contractors on other roads where the full right of way had not been acquired. A suggestion was made to throw out the bids and re-advertise for paving the right of way. This was done, a contract was let and I presume Mr. McGovney collected his commission on the portion of the road which was built. I was called to account for acting independent of the committee. Nevertheless two and three quarter miles of Wolf road has been paved. It was agreed by the property owners on Wolf road and the members of the Bond Issue Committee who were present at the meeting when the first bids were thrown out, that we would all use our best efforts to secure the remaining right of way and finish the paving of Wolf road thru to the Lincoln Highway. On the forepart of October 1930 an ordinance was passed by the village board of Mokena to construct a sewer system in the streets of this village. We had pledged ourselves to co-operate in a road building program. We were not asked to co-operate with putting over the sewer system. We did not believe that the construction of this sewer system as planned by the village board was justified. Therefore we with the assistance of the majority of the property owners of Mokena fought the case in court and the sewer system was thrown out.

From that time on all co-operation with the other members of the local road committee ceased and Mr. Semmler and I carried on the fight alone. A suggestion was made to switch the road a few hundred feet to the east running thru the north end of Mr. Cleveland's property, thence on south thru property belonging to Mr. Bauch, Mr. Elsner and Mr. Warning, thereby avoiding the timberland on Mr. Cleveland's farm. A meeting was held at the Hickory Creek bridge. Mr. Sheets, state engineer was present together with the bond issue and right of way committees at the request of Senator Barr. (I wish to state at this time that Senator Barr has always given us full co-operation both with his time and in the use of his office in getting this road built.) Mr. Sheets stated at that time that the state would approve either the straight route or this route to the east. Now the question I want to ask is what is the difference of opinion among the people of Mokena in regards to having this road built? The sewer question was purely a local matter and of no concern to the Will County officials. This is a statement of facts as I remember them and I will be pleased to have any one interested correct thru the columns of this paper any misstatements I have made, if any.

The gravel road from the Hickory Creek bridge to the Lincoln highway is in a deplorable shape and it is high time that the county officials done something to make this road at least fit to drive on.

Tinley Fall Festival A Howling Success

Among those present were John Homer of the Chicago Fire Department, Russell Homer, one of Chicago's specialty dancers, Mr. and Mrs. George Andrews, the Patten family of Chicago and many other out of town guests.

Mrs. Calvin Miller who was attired in gypsy style did a land office business in telling fortunes. She has the reputations of being one of the finest readers of today.

All of the many local organizations co-operated to the fullest extent in making the affair a grand success.

Messrs. Lorenz & Rein owners of the Sportman's Inn did their part in making the affair a success. This is only one of the many times they have come to the front to lend their help in community affairs.

Children dressed as fairies, butterflies, pirates, clowns, etc., lent their color to the crowning ceremonies.

Lion President A. O. Foskett was in charge of the voting and the boys who helped him did their best.

Richard Anderson acted as page boy and did honor to his part.

Miss Lee Schoeneck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schoeneck, was the star of the evening. She did excellent tap dancing. She is sweet little girl with ability to dance and is a real program opener for any affair.

Prof. and Mrs. Alexander Corado in charge of the Ladies Singing Chorus, added charm and quality to the affair.

Among the women who worked hard to put this affair over were Mrs. Trudie Swisher, Alice and Florence Anderson, Mrs. Hug, Mrs. Francis Rowden, Mrs. Mesenbrink, and Mrs. Clemens, in fact all the women were splendid helpers.

Asher Brothers, local athletes did stunts almost impossible to do and did them expertly.

The refreshment committee was headed by Mrs. Ethel Wannemacher as chairman and with the following helpers: Ethel Andres, Mrs. Myrtle Mohr, Mrs. Ann Keleher, Mrs. Anna Clemens, Mrs. Anna Mesenbrink, Mrs. Erna Wallin, Mrs. J. C. Funk, Mrs. E. E. Anderson and Mrs. Hilding Anderson was in charge of the tickets.

The Niagatri Girls club also played a part in putting the festival over.

C. Sander who promoted and managed the affair, is to be complimented on his untiring efforts and his ability to put the affair over big. In other words "he knows his stuff".

He wishes to express his appreciation to his many friends and helpers and to the public in general for their co-operation. He says this was one of the finest affairs ever attempted by him. The policy of Mr. Sander is always to give the people their money's worth and he has done this.

Mr. Sander was highly pleased with the support given the affair by the Tinley Park Times and in commenting on it said:

"I want to thank Editor Semmler of the Tinley Park Times for his unusual ability to convey the message of this affair and for his close co-operation in the advertising program in connection with the affair. I firmly believe in supporting our local newspaper as a means to display to the best advantage every opportunity locally. This appreciation also comes from the business men of Tinley Park and from all of those connected with the affair."

Good order was maintained by members of the local Legion Post. Chief of police Harry Uthe did a good job in controlling traffic by far the largest display of cars on Tinley Park streets for sometime and Harry is a very efficient officer.

This affair, no doubt, will help in conveying to the world the fact that Tinley Park is the biggest "little" town in Southern Cook County and the liveliest. This shows what co-operation does!

Brick Highway

Near Matteson

Causes Wrecks

In the St. James hospital at Chicago Heights Saturday were the latest victims of a series of accidents on the five mile section of the Lincoln highway in the vicinity of Matteson which was resurfaced with brick this year.

They were Frank Stanwood, 52 years old with a crushed chest, and Mrs. Wynfield Smith, 50 years old, with cuts and bruises. Mrs. Smith's husband, Frank, who was driving, escaped injury. All are of Dixfield, Maine.

The Smith car skidded off the brick surface into a ditch on Friday night and an investigation which followed showed that such accidents are becoming common in wet weather.

The Detmering garage at Matteson reported that as many as five wrecks a day were happening during rains on the five miles of newly surfaced highway.

One farmer, Ernest Blume, we of Matteson, said eight automobiles have crashed into the ditch in front of his place in the last thirty days. One of these was a loaded gasoline truck which knocked down sixteen fence posts. Six thousand gallons of fuel were lost.

Two weeks ago, according to the county highway police, a woman driver stopped her automobile on the pavement after witnessing one of these skid into the ditch. Before the drivers behind her could stop, eight cars slid into collision. The police closed this highway, detouring a traffic, while they untangled the wrecks.

The resurfacing on this section of the Lincoln highway was part of the 63 miles of similar brick work in Illinois this year approved by Governor Emmerson over protests that it would be just as cheap to widen the highway to forty feet of concrete. The old concrete, sixteen and eighteen feet wide, was deteriorating rapidly. It was of an antiquated design without a center expansion joint and without reinforced outer edges.

Over the surface of bricks is a thin coat of asphalt filler for the seams between the bricks. It leaves a surface similar to places which state officials have posted with the warning "Caution, slippery when wet." The wet asphalt also reflects the headlights of oncoming cars, making it difficult to see the center line. Beside the pavement is a narrow, slippery soft clay shoulder which carries cars into the ditch once they skid off the asphalt coated bricks.

HERE HISTORY WAS MADE

November 11, 1918

Marshal
Ferdinand
Foch

Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

THIS is the story of a dining car, the most famous dining car perhaps in all history. You will find it enshrined in a memorial building at the little town of Rethondes in Compiègne Forest in France. It does not have a name. It is only Dining Car No. 2419D of the Wagons-Lits company. But here history was made, for in this car on November 11, 1918, the terms of the Armistice, which ended the greatest war in all history, were signed.

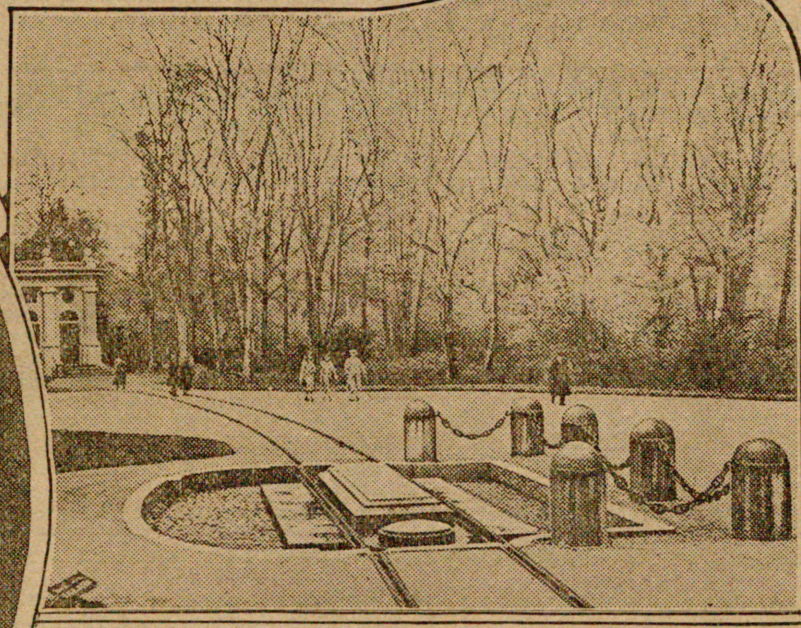

Dining Car No. 2419D joined the French army in 1914 to be converted into a railway saloon of a senior French officer. It served throughout the war and in 1918 it was used by General Ferdinand Foch when he became Marshal Foch, commander in chief of the Allied armies. So it was into this car early in the morning of November 8, 1918, that the representatives of the German government came to listen to the terms of an Armistice, for which they had asked, which Foch would be willing to grant them.

Picture now the scene which took place on that morning. In the center of the car is a table. On one side stand French and British officers, the victors. On the other side stand German officers and civilians, the vanquished. General Weyand, Foch's chief of staff, was at his right and at his left were two English admirals, Hope and Wemyss. As they took their seats Mathias Erzberger, the head of the German delegation, was facing Admiral Hope. General Von Winterfeldt, the second German plenipotentiary, was facing Foch. A German marine, Captain Vanselow, was seated beside Von Winterfeldt and the German diplomat, Count Obendorff, sat beside Erzberger. Lieutenant Leperche seated himself at the end of the table and two of Foch's staff officers, Major Riedinger and Captain de Mierry were seated at two small tables at one side. Here is the story of what took place as told by Foch himself:

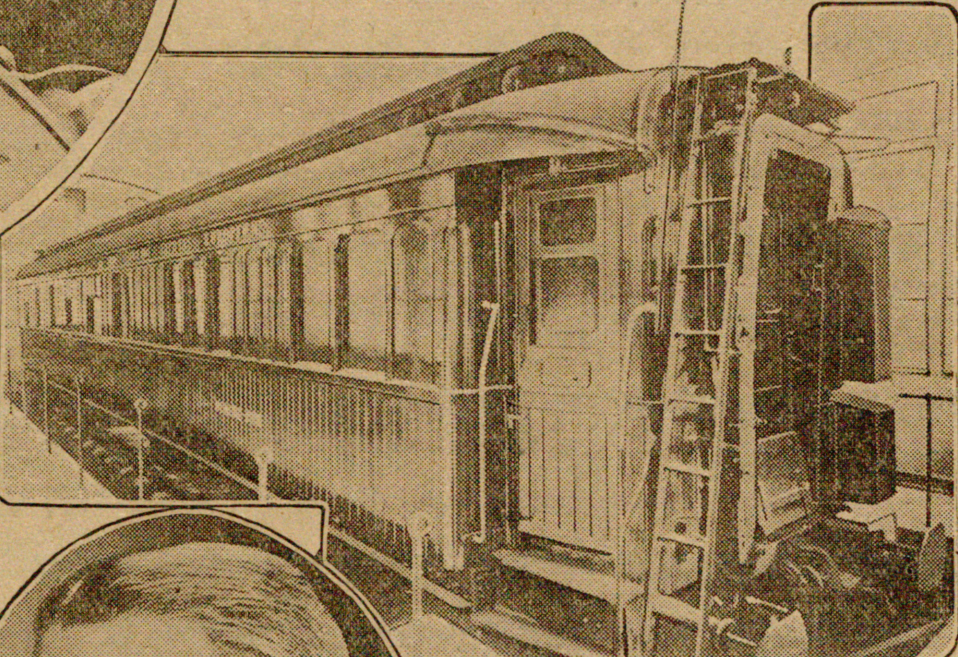

"When they entered my drawing room in the car, I saw them standing, pale and stiff. One of them, whom I guessed to be Mathias Erzberger, asked in a rather weak voice, permission to make the presentations.

"I simply said, 'Gentlemen, have you any documents? We shall examine their validity.' Then they showed me documents signed by Prince Max of Baden, which I deemed to be satisfactory. Then turning toward Erzberger, I said to him, 'What do you want?' He replied in a still troubled voice, 'We have come to receive the proposal of the Allied Powers in view of an armistice.' I cut in rather sharply (and this was the only time I was sharp), 'I have no proposal whatsoever to make.' The four Germans consulted one another with their eyes. 'Well,' said one of them, Count Obendorff, 'Tell us, Monsieur le Marechal, how you wish us to express ourselves. Our delegation is prepared to ask you the conditions of an armistice.' I insisted, 'Do you ask formally for an armistice?' 'Yes, we do.' 'Then, please sit down and I will read the conditions of the Allies to you.'

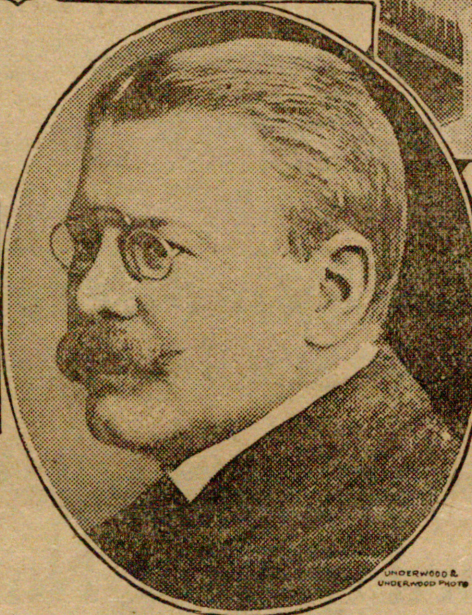

"I began to read the conditions of the armistice slowly. After each paragraph I stopped to permit the interpreter to translate. Then I looked at my interlocutors and followed the impression of their faces during the translation.

Where the Armistice Car Stood

The Armistice Car

Mathias Erzberger

Gradually I saw those faces change. Winterfeldt especially was very pale. I even think that he wept. When I had finished reading I simply declared, 'Gentlemen, I leave this text with you, you have seventy-two hours to reply to it. Meanwhile, you may present observations of details to me.'

"Then Erzberger became pathetic. 'For God's sake, Monsieur le Marechal,' he said, 'do not wait for those seventy-two hours. Stop the hostilities this very day. Our armies are a prey to anarchy. Bolshevism threatens them, and that Bolshevism may gain ground over the whole of Germany and threaten France herself.' I replied: 'I do not know in what state your armies are; I only know in what situation mine are. Not only can I not stop the offensive, but I am giving orders to continue it, with redoubled energy.'

"Winterfeldt intervened in his turn: 'Monsieur le Marechal, it will be necessary for our staffs to consult each other and to discuss together the whole of the details of execution. How will they be able to do so if the hostilities be continued? I beg of you, for technical reasons, to stop the hostilities.' Again I retorted: 'The technical discussions can just as well take place in seventy-two hours. Until then the offensive will continue.' This time it was finished. The four plenipotentiaries rose and withdrew."

During the next two days, November 9 and 10, Foch slept but little. He was certain that the Germans would accept his terms but in the meantime wireless messages received by the Eiffel Tower told of the outbreak of a revolution in Berlin so he did not know what government these men represented nor how much power they now had. On the evening of November 10 the German plenipotentiaries came back to request that, on account of the troubled state of affairs in Germany, the army be permitted to retain a greater number of machine guns for the purpose of maintaining order. Foch granted them this and a little after five o'clock on the morning of November 11 they signed the Armistice.

Of the subsequent history of this famous dining car a recent visitor to Compiègne writes in the New York Times as follows:

"What happened to Dining Car 2419D after that eventful night does not seem clear. It appears eventually to have been demobilized but not to have returned to civilian life. A small plate beneath the arms on one side of it announces that it was 'given by the Wagons-Lits company, May 1, 1921,' and it was presumably about that time that it turned up in the Court of Honor at Invalides in Paris where, with all its war medals upon it, it took its place with the other inanimate heroes of such a war as the first Napoleon never dreamed of. Its medals are a little difficult to see from the outside, for they are high up at both ends of the main saloon inside, in that strip which in the common herd of dining cars is occupied by advertisements of Scotch whiskeys, Riviera hotels and Atlantic steamship lines. They take the form of two small red plaques adorned with cream-colored flags, laurel wreaths and figures of Wagons-Lits angels or of Mme. la Republique, it is difficult to say which, for the light is not too good. One plaque bears an inscription which begins, 'In this car there was signed at Francport near Compiègne on November 11, 1918, at five o'clock the Armistice imposed on the Germans by the victories of the Allied Armies,' and continues with the names of the allied and German signatories. At the opposite end of the saloon the other plaque bears the names of the battles which the old dining car attended: 'The Marne 1924, the Yser 1915, Verdun 1916, the Somme 1916, the Battle of France 1918.'

"Paris, however, is fifty miles from Compiègne. When the old car took its place with the other immortals in the Invalides, there was nothing at the site in the forest except two boards nailed to trees marking the positions of the two trains. Le Matin of Paris was the first to move for a permanent monument, choosing a spot beside the Compiègne-Francport road 200 yards away, presumably on the assumption that nobody would ever leave the road and enter the forest to reach the actual site. Its monument is a striking piece of work, a golden sword with its point resting on a fallen German eagle, but although it bears the Armistice date there is a stronger flavor of Alsace-Lorraine in its inscription than of the Armistice.

"The next step was taken by Fournier Sarloveze, deputy from the department of the Oise and mayor of Compiègne. This was directed to the raising of a monument at the actual site which, although it is five miles from the town, is just within the municipal boundary. The monument which resulted was dedicated on Armistice day, 1922, in the presence of President Millerand and an impressive assembly of marshals, admirals, ambassadors, troops and townsfolk. It consists of a broad boulevard 200 yards long which has been carried into the forest from the main road, and at the end of which is a clearing 100 yards in diameter with a circular road surrounding the garden circle of the actual site. The railway tracks from Rethondes station have been torn up elsewhere in this end of the forest but in the clearing they remain. Between the rails of each track slabs of granite mark the positions which the two trains occupied.

"Of late years the old dining car had been showing the effect of the weather to which its outdoor position at the Invalides has exposed it. Its return to the site in the forest had been contemplated for some time, but the problem of the cost was not solved until A. H. Fleming of Pasadena, after consulting M. Sarloveze at Compiègne, offered 150,000 francs (say $6,000) for the construction of a suitable building at the site. Accordingly in April, 1928, the old car was moved on temporary rails to the outer court of the Invalides, where it was taken off its trucks and placed on two-wheeled floats to be towed to the Wagons-Lits repair shops for a coat of paint and a general sprucing up before starting on its last voyage. As soon as the builders were ready for it at the site, it was hauled back to Rethondes station and a line of tracks into the forest was especially laid for it. It was pushed carefully into its new home at the edge of the clearing and is now permanently built in. And there, with an ex-politico who limps when he walks in charge of it, you will find it today, roped off, smelling of fresh paint, and at the first glance looking like—well, looking about like a dining car.

"It is disconcerting to discover that the table on which the Armistice was signed was so unpretentious a table and that the chairs in which the signatories sat, Von Winterfeldt opposite Foch, Erzberger opposite Wemyss, were ordinary Wagons-Lits dining car chairs. It is difficult to fit the play to its banal theater, to connect this culminating episode of the greatest of all wars, one of the supreme moments in history, with the old dining car in which it transpired. Such, however, is the immortality of Dining Car No. 2419D."

A Cold

Colds are common because people are careless. Prompt use of aspirin will always check a cold. Or relieve your cold at any stage. And genuine aspirin can't hurt you. Take two tablets of Bayer Aspirin at the first indication of a cold, and that's usually the end of it. If every symptom hasn't disappeared in a few hours, repeat. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. Take enough to give complete relief. And if your throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in water and gargle away all soreness. In every package of genuine Bayer Aspirin are proven directions for colds, headaches, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis. Millions who used to suffer from these things have found winter comfort in aspirin.

BAYER ASPIRIN

Moreover

Irene Castle McLaughlin, whose home for homeless Chicago dogs recently burnt down, is a great lover of animals, and at a luncheon she told an animal story.

"There was once a colored gentleman," she began, "who had a dog named 'Moreover.'"

"'Queer name, that, for a dog,' a white gentleman said. 'Where did you get the name from, Junius?'"

"'Moreover am a Biblical name, sah,' Junius, the owner of the dog, explained.

"'Yes?' said the gentleman. 'How so?'"

"'Don't you remember, sah,' said the colored gentleman, 'whar de good book says: 'Moreover, the dog came and licked his wounds.''"

Unimportant

"John, my sister Lucy's getting married. What shall we give her for a wedding present?"

"Does she really love the man?"

"Of course."

"Then most anything will do."

Girl at the Top in Health Tests

Millions of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in the West, are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion. A Kansas mother, Mrs. Dana Allgire, 610 Monroe St., Topeka, says: "Bonnie B. is absolutely the picture of health, now, with her ruddy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body and she stands at the top in every health test."

Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since babyhood to keep her bowels active during colds or any children's ailments and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal."

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.

A New Wrinkle

"So you didn't sell that man a car?" inquired the boss peevishly.

"How could I?" argued the star salesman. "He wanted a car with a door that slammed shut without making a lot of noise!"

TINLEY PARK

The next meeting of the Lions Club will be Monday night Nov. 9, at 8:00 p. m. sharp, at American Legion hall. All members are requested to attend if possible, in order that a fitting welcome may be given to the honored guest of the evening, Ex-Senator Thurlow G.
 Essington, who will be with us with out fail, barring unforeseen accident.
 Mr. Essington has served in the State legislature many years and gave Len Small a close run for the nomination of Governor in the primaries at the last time Small was elected. However, Mr. Essington is not coming to talk politics, but to become acquainted with his new neighbors, for he is a taxpayer in Bremen township and spends part of his time on his farm at Goese-ville.

Mr. Essington is now practicing law in Chicago and is considering seriously of building a new residence and residing on his farm.

This will be an open meeting and every Lion is expected to bring a friend or two.

If you are interested in meeting a friendly man who has a wealth of experience, you are cordially invited to join with the Lions next Monday evening.

Tinley Park
Legion Notes

The American Legion Post of Tinley Park are planning to hold a buncio party December 18th, and which promises to be a novel affair. All prizes will be geese, ducks and chickens and will enable many to secure their Christmas dinner. A large turkey will be auctioned at the hall the same evening. More complete details will be given in a later issue.

A new member was taken into the Tinley Park Legion Post, Monday night, namely Comrade LeMack

Tinley Prize Numbers Unclaimed

The prize winners of the Tinley Fall Festival have not all called for their prizes. The following prize winning numbers are still awaiting the winners: 114D at Mancke barber shop; 57 5P at Edw. Henke's Feed Store; 55 4H Goebel Poo Factory;
 64 3Q and 3P at Tinley Park bakery

NO LICENSE REQUIRED BY EX-SERVICE MEN

That ex-service men do not have to pay licenses of any kind was brought out at the Mokena Council meeting Wednesday night when the board heard a letter read from the American Legion in the case of George Magrel, of the Royal Blue Store in Mokena, stating that no ex-service man need pay a license under the state law. The Legion advised Mr. Magrel to join the Legion Post at Joliet and thus be exempt from special village licenses in Mokena.

As a result of this situation, Alderman Richard Hensel stated that he felt it was discriminatory to charge licenses to the other businessmen in town who handle soft drinks, same as the Royal Blue. The matter was finally left to the license committee for further action.
 The board passed an ordinance setting the rate for pedlars licenses at $5 per year, $15 for half a year, $5 per month and $2 a day. This fee applies to foot peddlars as well as those using autos or other vehicles.

Busy Beans

CERTAIN foods are just chock-ful of energy—beans are one of them. It is pretty hard to get as much nourishment and downright "vim" from an equal quantity of any other food. A man can do a lot of work on beans, a boy can hike a long way on them, and a woman can withstand an avalanche of household wear and tear without jangled nerves if she has lunched well on this wholesome article of diet. Beans are economical, also, one of the most economical of foods.

All Varieties Canned

You can buy them for so little,
 and the canned product is so good, that it is but rarely worth while to spend time upon the preparation of the raw beans. There are canned baked beans, pork and beans, red kidney beans, refugee beans, beans with tomato sauce and wax beans. Usually they may be just warmed, perhaps seasoned, and served, but there are many delicious recipes of which beans are an important ingredient, such as

Hurry-Up New England Bean Pot: Dice one green pepper and fry for three minutes in two tablespoons fat. Add one No. 2 can tomatoes, and cook three minutes more. Add one 8-ounce can carrots, diced, one can New England oven-baked beans and one 12 ounce can corned beef, season and heat thoroughly.*

Mokena Church toObserve Armistice Day

In the interest of International Peace and Good-Will, a special Armistice service will be held at the St. John Evan. church, Sunday November 8th 1931. Soloists will be Mrs. U. Bibicoff and Mr. Leon Tonn. Sermon theme will be "The Prerequisites of World Peace."

Orland Park

The mission which closed last Sunday night, was a huge success.
 Night and morning, the church was filled to capacity. Rows of chairs supplemented the normal seating arrangement to accommodate the many people who were attracted by the eloquence of Father Sylvester and the beautiful devotion of the parishoners. Even at the early hour of 5:45 a. m., the daily attendance averaged over sixty. The sermon topics included: Death, Judgement, Sin, Scandal, Matrimony, The Passion and Death of Christ, The Holy Eucharist and Perseverance. At the closing ceremony 180 people, with their right hands held aloft, renewed their baptismal vows and pledged undying fidelity to Christ.

Mrs. Helen Langer May of Palos Park, a Sunday School teacher at St. Michael's and head of the French department of Loyola, was appointed dean of women at the same university. Over two thousand women are under her jurisdiction.

The Orland Park Post of the American Legion will conduct a special Armistice Day Service at the Cooper Cemetery at 11 a. m. Nov.
 11th. The firing squad will fire the salute to the dead and the graves will be decorated with flags. This is in special commemoration of the day All are invited to be present. This will be in preparation for the evening program.

Special Election at Orland Nov. 12

Next Thursday, November 12th a special election will be held at Orland to elect a mayor to fill vacancy caused by the recent resignation of former Mayor Ralph Jennings. Wm.
 Kollman is the only candidate on the ticket.

 to and from their work.

MOKENA MAN'S CAR DAMAGED IN COLLISION WITH STEER

While August Werner, Mokena meat market proprietor was driving on Maple Road Friday night he collided with a steer belonging to Ralph Waldvogel. The animal was roaming on the highway and Mr. Werner did not see it soon enough to avoid hitting it. The car was damaged, but no one was hurt, not even the steer.

HOLD SURPRISE HOUSE

 cently moved in his new house on the south side, was given a surprise ers in the Rock Island signal department Wednesday night.

New Tinley School

The trend of all the speakers' remarks, was to praise Tinley Park for their excellent spirit of co-opera-

The Ladies Chorus of Tinley Park, under the able direction of Prof. Alexander Corado, sang a number of beautiful selections, which added much charm to the splendid program.

At the close of the addresses, Past Commander Frank Hoar of the Tinley Park Post of the American

A letter from Mrs. Leila Moss, secretary of the Tinley Park Garden Club, addressed to Mr. Bert Fulton, president of the Tinley Park school board was read, in which it was stated, the Tinley Park Garden Club had voted to pay $100 toward the purchase of a moving picture machine for the school.

Mrs. Alice Anderson, on behalf of the Tinley Park P. T. A., gave an outline of the work the association has done for the school, showing they have thus far spent $700 on the school. She then presented the school with $50 toward the curtain purchase price.

C. Sander, who promoted the successful fall festival held by the Tinley Park business men last Saturday, presented the P. T. A., with a check for $50 from the proceeds of the affair, the gift being from the Tinley Park business men.

Mrs. Trudie Swisher on behalf of the Niagara Girls Club, said the Club was presenting the school with $10 to for the purchase of vases.

A very beautiful basket of flowers was presented the school by George Heim, Blue Island Florist, and two large baskets of flowers were also presented on behalf of Wainwright, Wilkins & Co., the Architects, and on behalf of the ventilating contractor.

Two Tinley Park pastors also were on the program, the Rev. Albert Buddenhagen, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church offered the invocation and the Rev. Theodore Loeppert, pastor of the Tinley Park German and English M. E. churches, offered the benediction.

Members of the Orland Park school board and Mr. and Mrs. F. J.
 Kohlhaas of Frankfort, the former being school treasurer of dedication.
